About Yellow Brick House

For nearly five decades, Yellow Brick House has been a lifeline for women and children impacted by domestic violence and abuse, helping more than 155,000 individuals find safety, support and the opportunity to rebuild their lives.

Today, Yellow Brick House continues to provide critical services to women and children across York Region and surrounding communities. Through our two emergency shelters in Aurora and Markham, 24-hour crisis and support line, counselling, legal and immigration assistance, and community-based programs, we support individuals and families as they work toward a future free from violence and abuse.

Gender-based and intimate partner violence remain serious and persistent issues in Canada. Every year, thousands of women and children experience violence in their homes, creating an urgent need for safe shelter, trauma-informed support and accessible community services.

At Yellow Brick House, we believe everyone deserves to live free from fear, violence and abuse. Our work extends beyond providing emergency refuge. We empower women and children with the resources, advocacy, education and tools they need to regain independence, rebuild their confidence and create safer futures.

Together with our donors, corporate partners, volunteers and community supporters, we are building a stronger, safer community where every woman and child has the opportunity to thrive.
